

BANK OF GHANA

Banks' Sort Codes

MAY 2014

1. Introduction

To facilitate the efficient clearing and settlement of interbank paper payment instruments throughout the country, cheques and other paper payment instruments were standardized to make them amenable to automated processing. The standardization included dividing the country into 11 clearing zones, with each zone having its clearing house; assigning a 6-digit unique sort code to each bank branch; and MICR-encoding paper payment instruments presented to the clearing house. A 6-digit unique sort code is also printed on all paper payment instruments.

2. Components of the sort code

The sort code was developed to facilitate the clearing and settlement of interbank payment instructions according to the clearing zone within which the paying bank is located, as the case may be.

The 6-digit sort codes are allocated based on pre-defined criteria to identify the bank, the clearing zone in which a bank branch is located and the branch number of the bank.

Consider the sort code 01-02-03

- The first two digits (01) represent the bank's code
- The second two digits(02) represent the code of the clearing zone within which the branch of the bank is located
- The last two digits (03) represent the branch's code.

On January 16, 2010 electronic clearing of cheques was introduced under the Cheque Codeline Clearing (CCC) with truncation system with nationwide coverage. All the clearing houses were collapsed and a new national clearing house was established. This Clearing House is sited in the premises of the Ghana Interbank Payment and Settlement Systems (GhIPSS) in Accra, the capital of Ghana. GhIPSS is responsible for the management and operation of the cheque clearing system.

Notwithstanding the collapse of the 11 clearing houses into one, the clearing sort codes developed on the old clearing house arrangements are still the criteria used in routing payment information to paying banks across the country.

3. Clearing Cycle

The period within which a payment instrument presented for clearing receives value is referred to as the clearing cycle. Following the commencement of electronic clearing of cheques in Ghana, the clearing cycle for cheque clearing nationwide is D+1. D represents the day on which cheques are deposited with the collecting bank and the image captured electronically for transmission to the Clearing House, while 1 is the day on which clearing and settlement take place.
